Report of Superintendent of Schools.

Another year of school work has come and gone, and it becomes our duty to prepare a report of the same. We are glad to be able to say that the interest in education has been as good as we could reasonably expect. In every instance we think the teachers have labored earnestly and faithfully and this, coupled with the interest and appreciation manifested by the scholars, has resulted in a good degree of improvement.

As may be seen by the statistical table, all the terms of school in town have been taught by the same teachers with one exception, (District No. 1).

DISTRICT NO. 1.

We heartily indorse the work that has been done in this school. Decision, gentleness and a knowledge of human nature are points of cardinal excellence in a ruler,—and experience adds thereto. As a teacher is never fretful, her pupils learn, sooner or later, that whatever measures she takes are not dictated by caprice or impatience, and become cordial workers with her in study and self-restraint. As has been written in former reports, we write now, continue the services of our good teachers as long as possible.

DISTRICT NO. 2.

In District No. 2 the Intermediate and Primary schools were united in one, making a school larger in numbers than any in town. Your School Board were successful in obtaining the services of an experienced and successful teacher. Many teachers are qualified educationally who lack executive ability, and there is a hesitation in appointing a lady to take charge of those who are correctly supposed to be too old to be "boys" and too young to be gentlemen. But as a result of our choice we found both qualifications in our teacher, and there was an acknowledged thoroughness in instruction and efficiency of administration.

DISTRICT NO. 3.

In this school the attendance has been very uneven. (See table.)

A portion of the uneven attendance was caused by scholars leaving our school to attend a parochial school in Epping, supported by the French population; also by the moving away of families living in town only during the summer season, and by sickness and neglect.

Considering the irregular attendance the school unavoidably maintained on account of the above named reasons, good progress was noted; teacher always diligent to bring about good results.

DISTRICT NO. 4.

A good school has been maintained through the year in this district. Best average attendance in town and least marks on register for tardiness in proportion to number of scholars.

Very few scholars now reside in this school district, and in consideration of this fact, your School Board may avail themselves of the provision of the law and unite this with some other school in town.

Most of our scholars are of suitable age to receive instruction. This they should have that they may lay well the foundation of an educational structure. Do not try to crowd their young minds too fast, but stimulate and encourage by judicious home influence, and as far as possible, let the term time be the children's. It is a mistaken idea that the loss of a few days' absence can be easily retrieved; it causes a break that requires hard study to mend. Keep up a pleasant relation with teacher and scholars by an occasional visit to them at work.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES B. MARTIN,

Superintendent of Schools.
